Millions of people all finding different ways they all will start believing Each individual with somethin to say or maybe their just dreamin
Well they all will start believing they all will start believin
Well they all will start believing they all will start
believin

Im goin insane im staring into the light its time to start
believin
Out of the flame and walking into the light theyll never stop me dreamin
We all they all will start believing they all will start
believin
believin

You think im living in a dead end world
I think im losing control
I think im losing control

You've got a feelin that you've gone too far Well its time to stop your fearin
The times are changin and its on the cards
That they all will start believin

You get attention when you're on your own its not unusual you're not alone Now all us freaks are takin over the show its time to breathe its time to rock and roll

And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin

Millions of people all finding different ways they all will start believing

I've got a feelin that i'm losing control
I've got a feelin that i'm losing control

And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin

And you all will start believin
And you all will start believin
And you all will start believin
And you all will start believin

They all should start believin
We all should start believin
They all should start believin
Cos we all will start believin Cos we all should start believin
Yeah we all should start believin
And we all should start believin
Yeah we all should start believin

And we all will start believin
And we all will start believin
