It's happened once before
Now it happened again
It's a cold night
With the harshised winds
You will ever feel
The cold brushes against your skin
It's raining so hard
I had no where to go
So I slept in the park
With only a sweater and a pair of jeans on
I sat across the street from your house
I sat and remembered
All the memories we had
I sat there and I cried
Every precious moment
Spent in your house
I just wish
Non of this had happened
The fights that we had
So I got and still crying
And I left your house...
