Everything's been broken since I met you the last time It's been awhile since I had a reason to go on with my life

But if you this once could please me
I know things were just never that easy Will we ever meet under the spotlights of love your hand in mine?

I still regret what I did that day
Try to think about it in the funny way
I still regret what I did that day
Try to think about it in the funny way

Everything's been said and done for too many times
No I don't find it necessary to even try to make things right

If you this once could please me
I know things were just never that easy
Will we ever meet under the spotlights of love your hand in mine?

I still regret what I did that day
Try to think about it in the funny way
I still regret what I did that day
Try to think about it in the funny way
I'm trying to change and you're trying to make me go

People need to know that there's still hope and a chance to survive People need to know when to let go and give up the fight
I don't wanna remain as this mess for the rest of my
I know I caused so much pain for you still I hope you'll ask for more

I still regret what I did that day
Try to think about it in the funny way
I still regret what I did that day

Try to think about it in the funny way
I'm trying to change and you're trying to make me go
You've seen me changing, you're still trying to make me go away
Now I am changed but I never made up for my mistakes
