Puffy lips, glistening skin
And everything comes rushing in
We don't go to hell, the memories of us do

I get a sense of connectedness Exclusive tight but nothing dangerous
We don't go to hell, memories of us do, do

And if you go to hell, I'll still remember you, you

But I thought you beat the death of inevitability, to death, just a little bit
I though you beat the inevitability of death, to death,
just a little bit
I though you beat the death of inevitability, to death,
just a little bit
I though you beat the inevitability of death, to death,
just a little bit

Terry's gift is forever green
It got me up and back on the scene
We don't go to hell, just our memories do

Fantastic gap, common space Open concept in your smiling face
We don't go to hell, the memories of us do

just a little bit
just a little bit
I though you beat beat the death of inevitability, to
death just a little bit
just a little bit
I though you beat the death of inevitability, to death
just a little bit
I though you beat the inevitability of death, to death
just a little bit
