Laying a little too close to the edge
Legs intertwined with our hands
Behind our heads
Home could never hold a match
To a view like this
Save that hill behind Lake Quannapowitt

Daydreaming when the sky's the limit
Just saw a cloud with your face in it
I know I never want to come back home
And I know I never want to have to do this alone

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
I know I never want to come back down
I never ever want to come back down

We keep sleeping through

The heat of the moment
And sunsets we forget to notice
Too young to let go
Speak up or speak slow

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
I know I never want to come back down
I never ever want to come back down

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
Well do you ever want to come back down?
Do you ever want to come back down?

Daydreaming when the sky's wide open
Scream your words like the whole world can hear them
Carve them out with your hands in the clouds
Hold them forever and never come down

Never come down
Never come down

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
I know I never want to come back down
I never ever want to come back down

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
Well do you ever want to come back down?
Well do you ever want to come back down?

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
Well do you ever want to come back down?
I never ever want to come back down

I'll go on my own way if you let me
We can dive into this life just to see
Well do you ever want to come back down?
Well do you ever want to come back down?
