Is this how you make me believe that we'd be so much better on our own? I'm wishing to see you once again. But the winter's never been so cold since you've been gone so please don't leave me to die all alone. When we talk, rhyming our words in mystery, things used to be so great. What is to blame for us? Try to forget me. This time I've had enough. What can stop the snow from falling down on me? I'm frozen here again, too cold, to bleed. Still I'm speaking out, but when this gets to you, it's there to remind you, it's gotta begin with you. This holiday, I'll risk my heart for you. What can stop the snow from falling down on me? I'm frozen here again, too cold, to bleed. I still feel the pain and it's burning me. But I promise that I'll be alright. Still I'm speaking out, but when this gets to you, it's there to remind you, it's gotta begin with you. This holiday, I'll risk my heart for you. What can stop the snow from falling down on me? I'm frozen here again, too cold, to bleed.
