This game is full of accidents and injuries,
So watch me as I bleed.

Pick me up and put me down again.
This isn't about you, it's about me.
I swear it to be the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

I lie awake, I like asleep through my teeth.
Still I can't sleep.
Commandeer a vehicle and let them drive you home.
Still I need to know.

I want to know that everything's alright.
I want to know that everything will be alright
With who we are, and who we're supposed to be.
The only answer, questions everything.

This game is full of accidents
so injure me and watch the pieces fall.
Collect yourself and your good health
And push against that which drags you down.

I'll find a way
I'll find a way to believe you.
Still I will believe you.
Commandeer a vehicle and let them drive you home.
Still I need to know.

I want to know that everything's alright.
I want to know that everything will be alright
With who we are, and who we're supposed to be.
The only answer, questions everything.

So pay no mind to those flashing lights on your way home;
Your alibi has just left you all alone at the scene of the crime.

And I want to know that everything's alright.
And I want to know that everything will be alright
With who we are, and who we're supposed to be.

The only answer, questions everything.
