She leaves it all behind her, and for the world to see
Re-lives all of her memories of what used to be
She lived within her mind and kept it all inside,
She had her self believing the words of him

Over & over again she keeps telling her self that
Over & over again she thinks she's to blame
And she says:
"All I know is that we'll"

Meet again, someday we'll meet again,
One day the sun will shine upon my life
Someday we'll meet again;
Someday you'll see my friend,
One day the sun will shine upon my life

She used to be forgiving and lived upon her wishes,
Sadly she found that there was only broken promises
How could it be lies had been told she always believed
That this day would never come

Over & over again she keeps telling her self that
Over & over again she thinks she's to blame
And she says:
"All I know is that we'll"

Meet again, someday we'll meet again,
One day the sun will shine upon my life
Someday we'll meet again;
Someday you'll see my friend,
One day the sun will shine upon my life
