Look into my eyes,
Tell me what you see,
Can you see the fear
I hide inside?
Who are you, judging me this way,
Can't you see the truth behind the lies?
Sometimes a dream may seem so strange to you,
It isn't always what it seems to be
I don't know just what to do,
There must be some answers to my questions

Can you hear me calling out to you,
(He is calling)
Can't you see the things that I can see;
(Can you see them?)
There must be some answers to all this

They told me to listen to the voice above me,
It speaks the truth and so they say.
No one will ever leave their place alone,
There always someone you'll get to know
Sometimes a dream may seem so strange to you,
It isn't always what it seems to be
I don't know just what to do,
There must be some answers to my questions

Can you hear me calling out to you,
(He is calling)
Can't you see the things that I can see;
(Can you see them?)
There must be some answers to all this
