All year round I'd be steady chasin' money
Gotta get it now can't let it get away from me
Restaurant food in my tummy
Oh, how I miss those home-cooked meals
Lobby calls 7 AM in the morning
Just got here from the club [...?]
Wishing that the world would stop spinnin'
Just for a day
Destiny awaits, she calls
Coming right away, I've learned Looking back on the road that we lead, while we chasin' our dreams
We can't forget about the little things

There's a time to handle business
There's a time to get your grind
There's a time you must put it on the side
There's a time when you realize something's missing in your life
And that's the time you chill with the ones you love
The ones that you love

There's a time to handle business
There's a time to get your grind
There's a time you must put it on the side
There's a time when you realize something's missing in
your life
And that's the time you chill with the ones you love

The ones that you love

Money, fame, and fortune is not worth losing it all Love and happiness is so much more worth it all
So stop taking chances just for advances
'Cause you'll never know when times that aren't [...?]
There's so much more to life

There's a time to handle business
There's a time to get your grind
There's a time you must put it on the side
There's a time when you realize something's missing in
your life

And that's the time you chill with the ones you love
The ones that you love

There's a time to handle business
There's a time to get your grind
There's a time you must put it on the side
There's a time when you realize something's missing in
your life
And that's the time you chill with the ones you love
The ones that you love
