Born with a restless heart
Feeding off hope that there can be some reason
Why all comes to an end
Before one can make amends

Silence
The screams of the past cannot explain the treason
But they will understand
It's part of a grand design

Patience my love (It can't take long)
I will seek your truth (I'll wait for you)
The lives I took, I took for you
And saw a flash of immortality
The great sham of divinity

Can it be the afterlife
Is right here in this life
Is this all there is or are our
Souls too black to see?
The universe is in your heart
It's never been worlds apart
This is not all there is but our
Souls are too black to see

Trapped in the gods great sham
The arrogant theft of what keeps us breathing
Yet die and you will see
What we search so desperately

Burning
The fire of lies conducting all our reason
We must separate the flesh and soul

Falling from grace (I see you fall)
I have found your truth (I must find you)
The lives I took, I took for you
And saw

Can it be the afterlife
Is right here in this life
Is this all there is or are our

Souls too black to see?
The universe is in your heart
It's never been worlds apart
This is not all there is but our
Souls are too black to see

Can it be the afterlife
Is right here in this life
Is this all there is or are our
Souls too black to see?
The universe is in your heart
It's never been worlds apart
This is not all there is but our
Souls are too black to see

The universe is in your hearts
