Verse 1:

My girlfriend's name starts with an I
Shines bright like stars in the sky
Stays by my side, when it's dark she's the light
She befriends many, and we get lost in her eyes
Staring at her instead of watching our steps
Run to her when we wake without catching our breath
She's addicting, the truth: we're fiends
But we ain't sniffing glue, we're just glued to the screens
She rules us, see the proof when she rings
We'd probably take two of her over two human beings
Her sisters? Some bigger some smaller
We sync her with em daily to keep her in order
We get her when she drops even if we can't afford her Ask me if I really need her? I be like, "sort of"
But when I seen her at the mall I had to court her
I keep her in accessories, ya boy do spoil her
I want her in my life, I'd do anything for her
Forget about a dime boy, she's more like a quarter
I'm with her all the time, it ain't nobody cooler
She's a lil jealous man and I don't wanna lose her
So instead of spending time with others
She only lets me talk when I talk through her

Hook

This is iLove
I love her so much I don't need nobody else
I try to put her down but can't help myself

Verse 2:

She's really affecting how my life goes
She controls me, I might go psycho
I can't think now, mental lipo
Weighty thoughts are pushed out by her light shows
Community's gotta take a backseat
I try to talk to others, but I'm feeling mad weak
There's always something I laugh at, something I can look up
She keeps me entertained, till I barely ever look up
And when I try to get up in the text

She's tapping on my shoulder to read another text
Look I thought she'd really be the best
I told her she a heavy ball and chain around my neck
She got mad like, "you got a better date?"
I had to man up, time to regulate
I told her if she ain't gon let me meditate
Then for my sake, we gotta separate
Don't wanna hurt her, I don't wanna abuse her
But she's only there for me to use her
