Do you know the reason people dive when they wanna
Take a ride through the world holding nothing at all?
Looking high, looking low, everything is grim until you
Bust your little bubble falling gently down below Well I don't know I've been told everything is good until it's bad
Then you know that you've been lost or you're found
Why? I don't know I'm feeling nothing
Spacing through time just like I know
I should if all I've got is my head
A rollin', think where I'd be and where I once stood Kick to another side where everybody glides
Through destruction leaving no place to hide
Save the day save the wave make you surely Shock them, thanking people that we should've knocked down on the ground
