Everything's static,
When you're waiting to hit the ground,
I am seeing new creations,
Fighting for the brokenground.

Bat your eyes and find your face
Before they catch you being happy,
For the time you say you spend,
I think I wrote another one.

I'm blown away, and you were watching and waiting,
And I failed today, I know you're waiting for me.

I am finding grains of sand
In places I've never been before,
Seeing desks and cluttered places,
Help me find a metaphor.

Color blue is dripping slowly,
I can feel it running down ,
I can't believe that I might say this,
But I think I'll watch you drown.

I'm blown away, and you were watching and waiting,
And I failed today, I know you're waiting for me.
