Come back home today, I'll love you again. Please 'cause I'm afraid, I haven't slept in days. I know that the only time I'm on steady ground is when you're under me. I don't care if you sinned, I love you again. In fact I love you now, so please just tell me how. I'm trying' find the way; make you realize that we're still meant to be. I was unaware that you were lost and that you held it all from me. I was unaware and unprepared for what I walked in on baby. Like an empire we crumble and we fall. That's not all we got, mistakes don't break us all. We have got a love inside, it's a yellow light, and it keeps us warm again. 'cause I'm not made of stone, I aunt got no throne. With help we can rebuild, diminish all the guilt. It'll all work out cause babe, I'm a forgiving' man, it helps that I'm in love. I was unaware that you were lost and that you held it all from me. I was unaware and unprepared for what I walked in on baby. I was unaware that you were lost and that you held it all from me. I was unaware of your affair and how you held him more than me. I was unaware still paid a cost, paid with the loss of you baby. I was unaware of your affair and how you held him more than me.
