These colored dreams that we have
Will put everything in the backseat drive past you
So goodnight these dollar signs
Will be the death of all our dreams

You can't take all of my heart
But you can take your best shot

We are the unheard voice
A generation of which should be loud enough
So we are the unheard voice
A generation of which should be loud enough

And I know, that are integrity is the grayest of the gray
Say goodnight, the world is trying to silence all we say

You can't take all of my heart
But you can take your best shot

We are the unheard voice
A generation of which should be loud enough
So we are the unheard voice
A generation of which should be loud enough

These colored dreams, I hope we always have
And now we say goodnight

You can't take all of my heart
But you can take your best shot

We are the unheard voice
A generation of which should be loud enough
And we are the unheard voice
A generation should be loud enough

We are the unheard voice, we are the unheard voice
We are the unheard voice, we are the unheard voice
