As I stand here all alone

As I feel the darkness grow

The sun's beating down my sorrow

And as I near my fate

I walk and shrink and underneath this

Stratosphere my heart is breaking

You turn the key and unlock forever

Take my hand into Yours and run away

Find a way back home

Sing loud this song

Love will surely come

Let's run away

Giving up your soul is such a hard thing

The ones who've gone to the other side

They've lost everything

Take some time to realize

So I pray for you, would you pray for me too?

As we travel down this road, down this road

The family we have, we've got to share with them

'cause if we don't, who knows?

They tell me blood is thicker than water

But I don't know about that

I've been stabbed in the back
