

Michael Tolcher

"Always Warming Me"

Visit "Always Warming Me" on MotoLyrics.com

Do you know I glow when I really love you?
Do you feel God's light over me?
Oh you have welcomed me like a river returning to sea
Well you let me know I am golden to you
And you make me more of a man
Why was it hard to see that you love me just as I am?
I can breathe again
How I love to feel the wind
When it's blowing me
Even though it might get cold again
I am not afraid, my friend
I know now that you're always warming me
Well I owe you more than I can remember
Though you'd never ask me to pay
Oh you've helped free this slave
From a prison my own worries made
And I give you all that I know to give you
And I've seen you come more alive
You're a blooming vine
Reaching gracefully up for the sky
There are things in me I rarely see but for you
Keeping on believing in me all along
Setting free and holding on
The only ways our love can last so long
Do you know I glow when I really love you?
Do you feel God's light over me?
Oh you have welcomed me like a river returning to sea
You have welcomed me like a river returns
You have welcomed me like a river returning to sea
I can breathe again
How I love to feel the wind
When it's blowing me
Even though it might get cold again
I am not afraid, my friend
I know now that you're always warming me

Visit Michael Tolcher page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.