"Blind"

Stop and think it so easy to close your eyes and go,
But I'd like to see you here, facing the facts.
It's so easy to hide what you're feeling inside,
But I'd to see you looking for something right.
It was so easy but now you're all alone.
All the seeds you planted are now lots of jokes.
Ain't that what you wanted for your life?
How is it to feel the cold outside?
You've been blind and here's your lie:
You never wanted something for your life.
Is that right?
