Nobody knows what's wrong or right,
I can't say anything about your life,
About what you do I will just be quiet again
You live your life with anxiety,
You make your day with no destiny,
You need a hand to hold but I can't do it for you
Lies are all you have
Lies are all you live
Living a life with pain or not if you have cocaine
Lies are always in your life
You're judged by friends all the time
When you decide to do something right
It's hard for you I know but you should try again
Your life is like a game you play,
A game you lose every single day
There's no way, no hope, but that's your own choice
