There's gonna be a World War Three one more world war and I get killed in World War Three I get killed

Here's how the whole thing starts religion gets seduced by art and hearts burst like grenades within when something whispers "pull the pin"

Right now they're building Ghandhi they're gonna bomb our ass with love and bring us to our knees just using what we're made of

You can't fight what has no form you just can't fight what has no form Cuz every time you introspect you dream up ways you could defect

So close your eyes and plug your ears and go to battle but when the whisper comes your world unravels

That's not a normal army they kiss the enemy with lips that blow your head off and set your spirit free

If I only knew who to surrender to
If I only knew
how to surrender

That's not a normal army
they kiss the enemy
right now they're building Ghandhi
they're gonna bomb our ass with love
and bring us to our knees

one more world war
