Well I'm looking for some kind of anchor
Someone to stand taller than me
To pull me up through these falling leaves

Well I've already got so much anger
Swelling up inside of me
I wasn't looking to closely for danger
And I didn't wind up where I wanted to be

You always said "reach for the stars"
But I could never see that far
And what's the point if this is all you are [X2]

So let go of all the things holding you down, and you back
Or you might think that you're under attack, but no
We let it go

Well I'm looking for some kind of anchor
Someone to stand taller than me
To pull me up through these leaves
(And now here we are)
[X2]

Where we are right now
Is where we found ourselves
Don't ever say
That nothing is too far away
