Way back when, I asked if this would last forever
You would have said, "it will never end."
How can you even face the day
Disgust flows through you like water
How can you even face the day
When the lies you said killed you dead
How, how can you, live with yourself
When you don't even know yourself
Turn the fuck around and walk away
This is the day, when all bets are off
You've shown your worth
Not much

Everyday I see your face, my hate for you
Grows much stronger
And this time, it has to end

How can you even face the day
Disgust flows through you like water
How can you even face the day
When the lies you said killed you dead.

How can you keep a straight face
When you never cared?
Every breath you make
Every step you take
Pushes me over the edge
