Up until now I lived a scattered lie
Place to place not keeping track of time
Than came you
I thank God for you

And all my life I've never had to be Responsible or kind to the people close to me
But then came you
And thank God for you

Well I live my life not knowing any better
But now I have no room to love another
I have no room to love another
No, but than came you
Thank God for you

I lost my place in a world so full of greed
You showed me the difference between want and need

I need you
I thank God for you
I live my life not knowing any better
But now I have no room to love another
Thank God for you

I lived my life not knowing any better
(Lived my life)
But now I have no room to love another
Thank God for you

Up until now I lived a scattered lie
Place to place not keeping track of time
