"Throwing Stones"

This voice unheard if these thoughts don't manifest
What was learned in all the time we've spent throwing Stones at a wall jaded by what we once embraced as our Own the lines we used to draw have started to gray
Fall from grace have we set our sights on something We'll never achieve making idols into angels losing Their faith fall from grace all this time we've spent Throwing stones at a wall this voice unheard these Thoughts denied the vision obscured by our content are
We just throwing stones have we set our sights on Something we'll never achieve throwing stones into
This wall we've made falling from grace
