conflict driven prince of rebellion wave your flag proclaim revolution do you even know what you say you condone rehearse your lines and you play the role do your best to look the part follower i hear the words you scream but i don't think you know what they mean like a locust you swarm around the opinions they from carving a path of destruction through what you claim to support follower i hear the words you say but i've yet to see this war you wage your words only serve as a means to condescend your actions don't support your words your words contradict your actions i hear the words you scream but i don't think you know what they mean i hear the words you say but i've yet to see this war you wage follower
