Written by Joseph Deeb

I knew all there was to know

I had Melissa, well I was on a roll

Found another, not any better

One in each hand seemed like the way to go
Big step, wrong direction

My steady girls on a week's vacation

I took a chance, she changed her plans

I missed the door but I caught her reaction
Chorus:

Now I'm forever in this lost and found

Til someone claims me or you come around

Til you forget why you set me down

Looks like forever in this lost and found
A small room, some scattered hangers

Tired jackets in a cardboard box
She took the things that she needed

And I guess the rest, well, she just forgot
Chorus

I can't say that I blame you

I think I might do the same

Hey baby, who's gonna blame this worn out liar anyway
I knew all there was to know

I had Melissa, well I was on a roll

Found another, not any better

But one in each hand seemed like the way to go
Now I'm forever in this lost and found

Til someone claims me or you come around

Til you forget why you set me down

Looks like forever in this lost and found

Looks like forever in this lost and found
