There comes the wind and you sail
From this moaning, arid shore
To the dreaming sea where the waves can get so high
Did you make your boat too frail
Is it too hard to catch the wind
Don't stray from the stream of beaming light

Set this child to grow free

Angels won't hold me, they breach what has grown me

Heart of our sorrows, now own me
Angels won't hold me, they breach what has grown me

Heart of our sorrows, now own me

Image on the mirror
It's nothing what you where hoping for
Just tears from the father are here for the son
Feeling nothing but scorn
No banners to welcome you
Dreams never ours, never in bond

Set this child to grow free

Angels won't hold me, they breach what has grown me

Heart of our sorrows, now own me
Angels won't hold me, they breach what has grown me

Heart of our sorrows, now own me
