The sun has set over my heart
That makes three days running
Into the night, a new start
But I will find another morning

Yes I will find another morning

The sun will rise, the day will break
The light will fade into the darkness
There will be no more give and take Yesterday was so heartless

Under the waning moon, beneath the darkest star filled skies
Forever damned to ride, forever ride the night

A new day is here, the night it was so long
Our journey here was a hand one
Our ride will never end, our enemy's the sun
Now with the dusk it's time to run
