So many times we look at ourselves in the mirror
To find out who we are
And who are we?
Oh, I just don't know
I can't see

We are all placed on this earth for a reason
That we don't know
But we care to show for all of us
And all who want to know

Looking at the afterimage of you
But I can't see when I try
It's just not there
When I try to see you
You are never there

Staring at a shadowed picture
An image of the past
Won't make illusions come to life
One must know these feelings won't last
Hold on before it goes too fast

Don't take time for granted
As it has served you well before
Love has introduced you to the past
You once explored

It seems so different today
Than it once was for all those years
We used to know
The world we knew has never been the same
