

Tyler Ward

"Home"

Visit "Home" on MotoLyrics.com

(feat. Eppic)

Bring me home tonight
can we leave for awhile
you said come here child Home tonight
can we leave for awhile
you said come here child

[Eppic]

This morning i woke and i wrote please god grant me the serenity to know whats gotten into me for me to look to the sky whenever i need that help for me to look towards god before i look towards myself you pulled me out of hell and uplift that put me on my way, on my pursuit of happiness underneath this exterior dorments something demonic solitary confinement dormints something psychotic got my back against the wall, up against the bricks on the edge of the surface which is digging into my skin knowing that this aint for me, its for them their drowning hopefully that one day their able to swin what this song needed was a voice which i gave like a rock struck by tidal waves how much more can i take of this before i break will this overcast fade or be the last i see the sun today

Home tonight
can we leave for awhile
you said come here child (x2)

[Eppic]

Fixated on becoming this prodigy blinded not by the sun but blinded by this oddessy cause what i got to be is prophecy redirect my approach and to make sure in this game i go harder than most once the beast is provoked and with all that i am simply articulate, a prison of passion just a artist, a slave to the pen it only takes the slightest spark for the artist to be awaken when i'm awake i'm thinkin wield words from the cranium

When i've got god impacts become spontaneous never asked for this, god must have something instore strike the lighter let my fire rekindle songs in my head waiting to form stanzas this may be the death of me but i'll take my chances as the novice advices, lyrically inhances plunge this battlefield with spears, swords, and lances

Home tonight
can we leave for awhile
you said come here child (x2)

Visit Tyler Ward page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.