What would you give, what would you offer to be given wisdom

Which extremes would you go to, to be given the mead

Give an eye or even sacrifice to you yourself

You should have seen, even your life must take an end sometime

Was there a way had your eyes had seen more

If you had the chance to read your runes and find your Fate, excavate, then would you hesitate to see what will be your predestined fate

"I see finally, visions of what will be

My fate, hesitate, it will be too late

... when done"

What did you give, what would you offer to be given
wisdom

Are you glad and does your soul rest in your wide learning

Just which horrors lie ahead you did not know it then, knowledge

It can darken minds like clouds the shining sun from above the earth

Now you know all, was it worth an eyeball

You had the chance to read your runes and find your Fate, excavate, did you no hesitate to see what will be your predestined fate

"I see finally, visions of what will be

... when done"

If you had the chance to read your runes and find your

Fate, excavate, I saw you hesitate to see what will be your predestined fate

"I see finally, visions of what will be

... when done"
