Older than Kosciuszko, darwin' down to Alice Springs Dealers in the clearinghouse, the settlements explode High up in the homelands, miners drive across the land Encounter no resistance, when the people block the road

Older than Kosciuszko, dry white seasons years ago Darkness over Charleville, the fires begin to grow

No end to the hostility, now they want to be somewhere
else
No stranger to brutality, now they'd like to be someone
else

Older than Kosciuszko, driven back to Alice Springs Endless storm and struggle, marks the spirit of the age High up in the homelands celebration 'cross the land Builds up like a cyclone now the fires begin to rage

No end to the hostility, now they want to be somewhere
else
No stranger to brutality, now they'd like to be someone
else

Call off the ultimatum, no don't turn away
Call off the ultimatum, until yesterday
Call off the ultimatum, no don't turn away
Bind up the brokenhearted, no don't turn away
Call off the ultimatum until yesterday

else
No stranger to brutality, now they'd like to be someone
else
