Imaginary Feelings (uncomplete)

Another evening all alone
... apartment
Staring out an empty chair
Wondering where he...

A self-inflicted punishment
And he thinks he deserves it
A self-inflicted punishment
But he dreams of better days

Imaginary Feelings
To the place of what he's trying to forget
But it's too late
The daylight seems so far now
And he's struggling to try and stay awake/away
To stay awake/away

Now he thinks about the things
That we said and repeated
They're like voices in his head
And he starts to miss them
Here comes the point of no return
And he's ready to cross it
Here comes the point of no return
He still dreams of better days

Imaginary Feelings
To the place of what he's trying to forget
But it's too late
The daylight seems so far now
And he's struggling to try and stay awake
But it's too late

Too many... too much pain
For a single person
His pain is turning into hate
... pressure

Here comes the point of no return
And he sprew / ready to cross it
Here comes the point of no return
He still thinks on better days

Imaginary Feelings
To the place of what he's trying to forget
But it's too late
The daylight seems so far now
And he's struggling to try and stay awake
But it's too late

Imaginary feelings
The daylight seems so far now
And he's struggling to try and stay awake
But it's too late
