"Behind Mankind's Disguise"

Living everyday in the imperceptible
Uncounciousness of our condition
The anaesthetic inertia of existance
Drags us smothly
Helping us to forget
The true essence of our nature

Emotional creatures
Made of pride and desire
Clumsily hidden beneath
The deceptive mask of duty
And rationality

Forgetting the basic rule of the relationships
"What I mean to you is just what your need from me"
Love, hate or importance
Is everything the same

Running everyday to satisfy
The meaning of the odd ilussion
A suffocating truth that only
Death will take away
Because life goes on for everybody else.
