Ring a bell
Send his soul strait to hell
Hang around a while
Yeah he'll be back out on bail
With a smile on his face yeah that shit eatin grin
We know this motherfucker he'll be at it again
It started out taking
Taking shit for grantit
Too many kick downs now his fucking friends have had it
Now it's enough
No ones buying his bluff
He's making times harder when they're already hard enough
But that don't mean
That it won't get better in the long run
When a mind is clever
In the meantime till things get better
You better stick around till you get that letter cuz
There he goes on the radio
Turn it up loud on your stereo
You didn't have to wait so long
To find the meaning of this song
Take another take another hit from that bong
You know you just do not belong

Ring a bell
These days it's getting hard to tell
But I crack a smile
And think of all that is well
When thunders crashing down and the lines wearing thin
People wanna throw you out when you're barely hangin' in
So we keep it real
Living life up in the valley
Passing up them zombies always tweekin' in the alley
So I smash my bottle down and say enough is enough They're making times harder when they're already hard enough
But that don't mean
That it won't get better in the long run

When a mind is clever
In the meantime till things get better
You better stick around till you get that letter cuz
There he goes on the radio
Turn it up loud on your stereo
You didn't have to wait so long
To find the meaning of this song
Take another take another hit from that bong
You know you just do not belong

When it hits the nitty gritty
You know you best understand
No matter what you're thinking
Yeah you're just one man
Trying to conquer the world with just your two hands
I bet you think you're the man
Running through time without your eye on the clock
One of these days you're gonna get dropped, dropped, dropped, dropped
In the single blink of an eye
I can still hear your mamma cry
