Loved a girl who was sad wanted me to be her dad and I met her breaking glass damn I left her pretty fast lost a girl with the legs she had super dirty ways Had a girl who could drive and a girl who could fight

Met a girl at the drugstore, one on the second floor Took her to the east shore but you know that got sore Girl who's a waitress, one with a paycheck Girl who's a temptress that baby's all about stress

I love the way you let me pay for all your dreams and burdens I took your history ya I crushed it and I loved it baby I was of it, ah you fill the holes in me

Chorus:

Where do I go? You got my rhythm I cant move without you baby Where do I go? You're all I am girl, hold me in your hand girl
Where do I go?

You know the girl with the scar back from when she crashed her car Ya she kinda lost her mind I guess we weren't so alike There's a girl wearing black cause she thinks it makes her thin but its really just depressing I bet she's the type for mining.
There's a girl whos a doctor looking for her father sits around the diamond store acting like she knows more one who is sick and a girl who is thick, got a friend who's so thin you can never ever find her girl with a guys name but she never plays games lips like a hurricane pull me up in your rain held her till I died you know back on Sunday night this girl what i'd give to have you anything to hold you

Chorus

oh the girl at the truck stop living on her last luck asking me for my love but my heart was too tough girl at the ballet dancing like a lady oh what it did to me starring at that beauty one who is so fine, living on her dad's dime girl that's a model, her baby needs a bottle met a girl with disease and a couple on their knees you know praying just to get straight, lovin' just to get paid.

You're the one with the soft touch damn I love you sweetheart you're like no other ones, oh Keep you close, a second dose, your pretty pose changes my look on life today.
You're the one that I've trusted to hold all of my fears inside of.

Chorus.
