AMTRAK SONG

If you miss the train I'm on,
And you doubt that I'll be back,
You will know the train I'm on
Is called AmTrak.

Lord, I'm one; Lord, I'm two;
Lord, I'm three; Lord, I'm four;
Lord, I'm five hours late
To New York.

Not a seat on the train,
Not a place to put my pack,
As the train crawls along
Decrepit track.

Lord, there's one; Lord, there's two;
Lord, there's three; Lord, there's four;
Lord, there's five wrecks a month
On this line.

Warm flat soda to drink,
Stale sandwiches to eat,
And I'd hate to see the cow
That gave this meat.

Lord, there's one; Lord, there's two;
Lord, there's three; Lord, there's four;
Lord, there's five strains of mold
On this bread.

Four O'Clock in the morn,
And a blizzard at my back,
As I'm standing by the track,
In Buffalo.

Lord, there's one, maybe one,
Only one, surely one,
Lord, there's one train a night
On this line.

There's a train going here,
There's a train going there,
But you can't get there from here
On AmTrak.

There's just no train at all,
Yes, there's no train at all,
'Cause they've cut the train that goes
From here to there.
