There's nothing I can tell her, she doesn't already know we have been broken before there's nothing I can show her, there's no where left to go
I think we've drawn the final straw

And does it hurt? tell me where it hurts. where does it hurt?
every where every where she cried does it hurt? tell me where it hurts. where does it hurt?
every where every where she cried cause you blew a hole in me and you passed on through

Said big words like "trust", and this is what you do I gave you the rope and you hung me too there's the weight of the truth my quiver for a convient excuse maybe I just stopped loving you

hurt?
does it hurt? tell me where it hurts. where does it hurt?
and you blew a hole in my and you passed on through Irreparable damage, I think that's what it's called.

I think that's what it's called, i think that's what it's called
