Baby I can talk for hours if you'll only listen. I can show you what you have in store.

Full nights of gray skies love, and who does your heart beat for, do you love him as much as I loved you.

The ball dropped just when they said it would, whose throat were you at, does he love you as much as I loved you?

These walls stink of lies and nicotine. Which ones did you get stuck between, and who did you fuck to come clean?

Well baby I can talk, for hours if you'll only listen. I can show you what you have in store.

Open up that bedroom door. I don't want to hear your voice anymore. The way you're talking up a storm set to ravage this east coast.

And baby I can close, my eyes and watch you disappear. But out of sight is not really out of my head cause' I still can hear you.

Full nights of gray skies love, and who does your heart beat for, do you love him as much as I loved you.

I'll tell you what I really need. A little more late night company so get up girl and come to me. So we can end this misery.

Tell me everything you know about pain, seeing as you made me this way. I hope you feel it to. I hope these walls come crashing down on you.

Full nights of gray skies love, and who does your heart beat for, do you love him as much as I loved you.

I'll tell you what I really need. A little more late night company so get up girl and come to me. So we can end this misery.
