Morning bled at the water's edge
The city was bringing me down
And my mind was on a ledge
Saying who's gonna help you now?

Without sun we pull what feeds us
From the heat that's in-between us
How can we expect to build a boat
Seagulls running everything

Hard, you make it hard, hard

It's all the opposite I think
The ladder runs side to side
Enough to make you want a drink
But there's no place to hide

Watching shadows within
Shadows within shadows
They hide their dark self from the sun
And her voice is just a memory
You're not fooling anyone

Hard, you make it hard, hard
Hard, you make it hard, hard

Morning bled at the water's edge
The city was bringing me down
And my mind was on a ledge
