Light of the summer heave
Take your planes and bring them to the sky
While I'm waiting here
People can't seem to look'n'like my shoes
Worn out
Like a thought we used to call our own

Your pain is an half desire
Take your fears and burn them in the fire
Of your new found love
When it's time to choose we look around
Our hands
And see there's nothing more and within

We always run around
Comes a time you settle down
People say I'm blue
As they always do
When I'm waiting here for you

Rope, as we used to name it
Has burned our hands and tied too tight our minds
We never known
How to get rid of it and jump around
Like blind frogs
Forever looking for the greener

The things that I thought I had Were burned in the last and lovely summer campfire
waiting for the sky to crash on my head and the rest of us while praying for it

We always run around
Comes a time you settle down
People say I'm blue
As they always do
When I'm waiting here for you
