

Van Morrison "And The Healing Has Begun"

Visit "And The Healing Has Begun" on MotoLyrics.com

And we'll walk down the avenue again
And we'll sing all the songs from way back when
And we'll walk down the avenue again
And the healing has begun

And we'll walk down the avenue in style
And we'll walk down the avenue and we'll smile
And we'll say baby ain't it all worthwhile
When the healing has begun

I want you to put on your pretty summer dress
You can wear your Easter bonnet and all the rest
And I wanna make love to you, yes, yes, yes
When the healing has begun
When the healing has begun

When you hear the music ringin' in your soul
And you feel in your heart, it grows and grows
It came from the backstreet Rock and Roll
And the healing has begun
That's where it come from man

I want you to put on your, your old summer red dress
Come on out
Put on your Easter bonnet and all the rest
And I wanna make love to you yes, yes
And the healing has begun, I can't stand myself

We're gonna make music underneath the stars
We're gonna play to the violin and the two guitars
And we'll sit there for playing on ours, for hours and hours
Hours and hours and hours and hours and hours and hours

When the healing has begun
And hours and hours and hours and hours
When the healing has begun

{Wait a minute, listen, listen

I didn't know you stayed up so late

Oh and you know, I just got home from a gig
And I saw you standing on the street
Baby, just let me move on up here to this window-sill a lil' bit here
Yeah, I guess I got to take some Sherry
You want a drop of Port}

{Yeah, I want you to come behind
Behind this door here
Or just move on up this, this letter-box here
Why don't we just go in your front room
And just sit down and sit and see
No, if you just open up a, a little bit
I just gotta play this Muddy Water's track yeah
You got here, no
No, if you just open up a, a little bit
Come on in, you know some of this backstreet jelly roll}

We're gonna stay out all night long
And then we're gonna go out
And roam across the field
Baby you know how I feel
When the healing has begun

When the healing, when the healing has begun
And I'm healing, and the healing has begun
We're gonna dance, we're gonna stay out all night long
We're gonna dance to the Rock and Roll
When the healing has begun

Oh baby now you just Let me ease on a little bit, you dig this backstreet jellyroll
And the healing, the healing has begun
And the healing has begun

Visit Van Morrison page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.