Another day draws to a closing
And yet its me left here wondering
What could it mean those words he said
That in the least encompasses my head

Sweet Dreams he remarked a gentle kiss imprinting my heart Apparent to me, it obviously seems
He doesnt know what comes with dreams

It brings the cold sweat out Fumbling and chilling, what their all about
When I try to run, they grab me
Within my deceit, their reality

A piercing shriek; a crying sky
No time to gasp let alone ask why
The shadows come, surrounding
My fear alone is mounding; in this, my nightmare

Creatures of amazing concoction
My soul they sell at this inhuman auction
The hidden, darken corners now are visible Long forgotten fears now are plausible; in this my nightmare

Swallowed up in the sound of my screaming
Oh how I long for the deep sleep dreaming
I cannot cease for the fear of silent nights
I the goddess of imaginary light

If you need to leave the world you live in Lay your head down and stay a while Though you may not remember dreaming Something waits for you to breathe again; in this my nightmare
