I know that smile anywhere
Only less than I know that stare
But do you know how you get into me
Locking breath that easy

I know the way your fingers cross
When you move an inch I feel the loss
But if I only spoke
If you only heard one note

Then when the sun goes down
We'll let the moon get into it
Let all the lights get low
Feel the side of your eyes they go

Then when the sun goes down
I find a way to get rid of it
Just hold on my tongue, I know
It won't mean a thing

I walk against my fears
Every step on the ground
And all the in between
Who knew the dark make you see
The shape of my heart
And every B

Then when the sun goes down
We'll let the moon get into it
Let all the lights get low
Feel the side of your eyes they go

Then when the sun goes down
I find a way to get rid of it
Just hold on my tongue, I know

It won't mean a thing

It won't mean a thing

It won't mean a thing
