"The Lost And The Chosen"

Bring it on, build your walls outside the beautiful trees
If it keeps you safe from our beliefs
I can't make you change your way

Turn it on you are not alone inside the spinning wheel
Everyone changes face so constantly
I can't make them change their ways

You are lying down in the lost and the chosen,
Waving as hard as you can
You cry out loud through the dark faded window
And it keeps reflecting back

All along the thoughts were wrong although the feeling was real
The sun always shined the same for you and me
They can't make us change our way
