"The Love You Had"

When the love you had has shut the door
And left you standing on the other side
The photographs are peeling off the walls
I'm in the headlights of a car crash site
I'll be there, by your side
In the morning when you don't know how
To breathe
I'll be there, by your side
To chase the dark clouds from the sky
And let the sun shine through

The memories are painted over washed away
And all i've got is what's left inside
I used to have a starring role, it faded out
Now i'm just a walk on part

I'll be there, by your side
In the morning when you don't know how
To breathe
I'll be there, by your side
To chase the dark clouds from the sky
And let the sun shine through

When the love you had has shut the door
And left you standing on the other side
When the love you had has shut the door
I'm in the headlights of a car crash site
