

Mike Gordon "Radar Blip"

Visit "Radar Blip" on MotoLyrics.com every time i travel to a new city. i go on my run every day.

often there's a side walk where i send my running feet woah this time i think ill run a different way and now I'm on the these yellow lines running through the cart now I'm jumping up on hedges high i climb in a window let ajar over conference table where they meet keeping steady clip i free my mind when i run off course just like a zigzag radar blip when i try to use my mind to figure where i ought to go woah my pace can be painfully slow but when i let my sneakers run me up and over hills i bring myself to you in your green ora glow i moved off that radar screen just like a shooting star i wont try to come back soon now that i've gone so far my legs they climb me up so high now i feel the power see me on your radar screen you'll find me perched on the Eiffel tower climb your tiny radar blip flashing across your screen i times hiding there unseen
I'm your tiny radar blip flashing across your screen I'm your tiny radar blip your my radar queen I'm your tiny radar blip hiding and I'm seen blip
blip
blip
blip

awsome song enjoy

Visit Mike Gordon page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.