A heart too ruthless and unaffectionate
Just call this crazy and no one will question it
How could we ever, ever let you down
'Cause talk is cheap and no one is listening
We see right through the pain that they're offering
We search forever and nothing here is true

'Cause a heart won't save me
And I hope that maybe
This year will be much better than the last
Tell me we're okay now, we'll forget the past
This year maybe we'll just make it through We'll make it through

We speak our minds and we stay behind our words
And knowing that we're scared is the worst thing we ever heard
How did we ever, ever get this far
And when it all comes down to it
Remind us that we can't forget
The bitter ones who brought ourselves in this predicament

'Cause a heart won't save me
And I hope that maybe
This year will be much better than the last
Tell me we're okay now, we'll forget the past
This year maybe we'll just make it through
We'll make it through

I'm going crazy with the thoughts of me being alone, that's so unfair
I'm feeling helpless with the plans I've made to get me everywhere

This year will be much better than the last
Tell me we're okay now, we'll forget the past
This year maybe we'll just make it through
We'll make it through

This year will be much better than the last
Tell me we're okay now, we'll forget the past

This year maybe we'll just make it through
We'll make it through
