

Veronique Sanson

"Green Green Green"

Visit "Green Green Green" on MotoLyrics.com

(VÃ©ronique Sanson) adaptation anglaise Gary Osborne/Paul Vigrass

The rain was beating on the window, the sky could not be seen
But still the garden was green, green, green
And I could see my love's reflectionn, but there's something wrong.

Not a sound to be heard, so calm, not even a word.
Just the sound of my heart beating out in the dark.

Outside, the northern winds are blowing and there will soon be snow
But in the warmth of the fireglow, my love and I are safe together
But there's something wrong.

Not a sound to be heard, so calm, not even a word
Just the sound of my heart beating out in the dark.

The rain was beating on the window, the sky could not
be seen
But still the garden was green, green, green
And I could see my love's reflection, but there's something wrong.

Visit Veronique Sanson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.